

Technical Process Specialist

Denmark

Step into the future of technical excellence!

Are you passionate about driving excellence in inspection services within an international organization? Join us in shaping the future of quality management in the food industry and making a lasting impact.

As a Technical Process Specialist at Bactoforce International A/S, you will play a key role in supporting our Head of Engineering and Technical Support and regional service teams. Your mission is to ensure consistent technical execution, maintain inspection standards, and contribute to process improvement initiatives across all regions.

What will you do?

- Provide technical guidance to Area and Service Managers on inspection processes.
- Assist with troubleshooting and aligning operational workflows.
- Support development, maintenance, and implementation of inspection methods and tools.
- Contribute to validation and continuous improvement of inspection technologies.
- Assist with technical projects, including rollout of new processes and technologies.
- Facilitate internal technical training and maintain documentation.
- Support QHSE documentation, ISO compliance, and safety procedures.
- Manage technical documentation, reporting, and asset coordination with suppliers.

What do you bring?

- Bachelor's degree in Engineering, Food Science, or a related technical field.
- Proven experience in technical support, engineering, or process-oriented roles (preferably in the food or processing industry).
- Familiarity with inspection technologies, quality management systems, and safety procedures.
- Experience with technical coordination, process standardization, and implementation projects.
- Proficiency in Microsoft Office 365, SharePoint, and technical reporting tools.

Personal profile:

- Social and representative, you enjoy being in contact with people.
- Strong organizational skills and attention to detail.
- Excellent communication and collaboration abilities.
- Proactive mindset with initiative to improve processes.
- Independent, responsible, and solution oriented.

What do we offer you?

- An independent and versatile position with both operational and coordinating tasks.
- A comprehensive onboarding and training program in our area of expertise.
- Opportunities for professional growth in an international organization committed to quality and innovation.
- A place in an enthusiastic and driven team.;
