

Application Manager

Denmark

Step into the future of digital excellence!

Do you have a passion for digital transformation, business process optimisation, and user-focused application development? Join us as an Application Manager and help shape the digital backbone of our organisation!

As an Application Manager at Bactoforce International A/S, you will be responsible for driving and supporting small to mid-scale development initiatives for digital applications that enhance and enable business processes. You ensure that applications - especially the R-Force platform - meet internal customer needs and align with organisational standards and strategy.

What will you do?

- Provide first-line technical support to R-Force users.
- Drive system enhancements and oversee small to mid-size development initiatives within R-Force.
- Support the development and implementation of Microsoft-based applications.
- Collaborate with internal and external stakeholders to translate business needs into effective digital solutions.
- Serve as the primary contact for bug fixing, data requests, and system-related inquiries.
- Manage, prioritise, and refine the product backlog.
- Define user stories and acceptance criteria.
- Collaborate closely with Agile/Scrum teams to deliver enhancements and new features.

What do you bring?

- A technical background and an associate or bachelor's degree.
- Strong analytical skills with a focus on process optimisation and simplicity.
- Experience in project management, preferably within Agile methodologies.
- Basic understanding of system and application development.

Personal profile:

- Strong communication skills to effectively engage with different stakeholders.
- Result-oriented mindset with focus on value creation and customer satisfaction.
- Analytical thinker able to recognise patterns and assess consequences.
- Capable of making well-thought-out decisions in dynamic environments.
- Innovative mindset, contributing to digitalisation within the organisation.
- Collaborates well in multidisciplinary teams.

What do we offer you?

- A key role in shaping and improving the digital landscape of Bactoforce.
- A versatile and independent position with direct impact on business process digitalisation.
- Opportunities for professional growth in an international organisation committed to quality and innovation.
- A place in an enthusiastic and driven team.
